

From the 'Flying Knouff Family...Sister & Brother:

the sis... B E C K Y K N O U F F

New River, Arizona

Becky Knouff has lived in Moab, Utah for the last 27 years. She is a third generation house painter following in the footsteps of her father, grandfather, uncles and brothers. She enjoys photography, and developed her style early on being influenced by her three brothers unique take on life and her love for "all things old". Embracing the beautiful aged patina that time paints on the world in the form of cracked and peeling paint, architecture eaten away by wind and rain, and the wonderful emptiness of vast landscapes, believing that our history is important and capturing that history in photographs is her passion.

FOR MANY MORE
IMAGES BY
BECKY AND TERRY,
VISIT OUR HOME PAGE

La Sal Junction

CLOUDS in Spanish Valley

the bro... TERRY KNOUFF

CANYONLANDS RODEO GROUNDS...

Gas station: My brother and sister painted this movie set gas station, people stopped for gas and beer anyway.

Manipulated Polaroid... formerly the 'Westerner Grill'

Caddy Fin : Moab attracts all manner of wheeled vehicles, some like this Cad have more class than others.

Manipulated Moab Chev, Polaroid SX70 film.

Terry Knouff has been loving the Canyonlands country since 1979, and living in it since 1987. But his first love (not counting Claudia Fancier in the 4th grade) is photography. Especially instant photography, the kind the Polaroid Corporation once provided to the world. Those days are past, Polaroid went belly up, and the Canyonlands have , by some estimations, been loved to death. But life goes on, and Terry continues to find enjoyment in the Canyon Country near his home in Moab, Utah, and in the art of Photography. He has since found some satisfaction in digital photography, but of late he's yearned for the "good-old-days" of his instant photography youth. You can find his photography online at <http://www.flickr.com/photos/tknou>